CHERYL SOURKES

Cam Work

Cheryl Sourkes has been surfing and capturing webcam images for several years, and her work serves to articulate for viewers some of the ponderous questions that emerge in seeing the world differently through this particular technology. Sourkes's current practice is not one of making images so much as it is one of selecting and editing from the thousands of screen grabs that she has collected. Among these images, some places are immediately recognizable and many others are not notable; they could be virtually anywhere, rendering the technologically enabled world as a relatively undifferentiated and easily legible universe.
