

Contributors / Collaborateurs

---

Volume 20, 1987

URI: <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/llt20con01>

See table of contents

---

Publisher(s)

Canadian Committee on Labour History

ISSN

0700-3862 (print)

1911-4842 (digital)

Explore this journal

---

Cite this document

(1987). Contributors / Collaborateurs. Labour/Le Travailleur, 20, 6–6.

CONTRIBUTORS/COLLABORATEURS

Keith Archer is a member of the Political Science Department at the University of Calgary. He has published other material on the New Democratic Party.

Douglas Cruikshank is a Ph.D. candidate in history at Simon Fraser University in Burnaby, B.C. His thesis studies strikes in B.C. He is also co-author with G.S. Kealey of the labour plates in Volume III of the Historical Atlas of Canada.

José Igartua is a member of the Department of History at the Université du Québec à Montréal.

Gregory S. Kealey edits Labour/Le Travail and teaches history at Memorial University. He is currently working on Canadian state repression of labour and the left, 1914-1939.

Robert Kell is a Toronto-based artist.

André LeBlanc is one of the original editorial board members of L/LT. He works at Champlain Regional College in St. Lambert, Quebec and has published on the life of Gustave Francq.

Andrée Lévesque is a chairperson of L/LT's editorial board, lives in Montreal, and has published material in labour and women's history.

Ian McKay is a Canada Research Fellow at Dalhousie University in Halifax. An editor of New Maritimes, he has published extensively on Nova Scotia labour.

Vincent Mosco teaches Sociology at Queen's University in Kingston.

Bryan Palmer teaches History at Queen's University and is L/LT's book review editor. He is currently working on pre-industrial labour in Upper Canada.

Sharon Reilly is Curator of History and Technology at Winnipeg's Manitoba Museum of Man and Nature.

Myer Siemiatycki teaches at Ryerson Polytechnic in Toronto and recently completed his Ph.D. thesis on Canadian labour during and after World War I.

James Stafford is a sociologist at Lakehead University in Thunder Bay, Ontario.