

Contributors / Collaborateurs

---

Volume 37, 1996

URI: <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/llt37con01>

See table of contents

---

Publisher(s)

Canadian Committee on Labour History

ISSN

0700-3862 (print)

1911-4842 (digital)

Explore this journal

---

Cite this article

(1996). Contributors / Collaborateurs. Labour/Le Travailleur, 37, 7–8.

CONTRIBUTORS / COLLABORATEURS

George Bolotenko is an archivist at the National Archives of Canada, Ottawa.

Peter Campbell teaches History at Queen's University and is working on a book on Canadian non-Communist Marxists in the 1920s and 1930s.

Anthony Carew, former Director of Research for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport, and General Workers, teaches comparative industrial relations at the University of Manchester Institute of Science and Technology (UK) and is writing a history of the ICFTU.

Jacalyn Duffin is a physician and historian who teaches medical history at Queen's University.

Leon Fink is Professor of History, University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and author of In Search of the Working Class: Essays in American Labor History and Political Culture.

John D. French is Associate Professor of History, Duke University, Durham, NC and author of The Brazilian Workers' ABC: Class Conflict and Alliances in Modern Sao Paulo.

Judy Fudge teaches at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University and works in the areas of the legal regulation of women's work and the history of collective bargaining in Canada.

Bill Gale is a graduate student in Geography at Queen's University, Kingston, ON, working on a project concerning industrial heritage landscapes and the politics of social memory in Michigan's Copper country.

Martin Glaberman teaches labour studies at Wayne State University, Detroit, MI.

Julie Guard is a union activist and teaches at York University and the University of Toronto. She recently completed a PhD thesis on gender relations in the UE, entitled, "The 'Woman Question' in Canadian Unionism: Women in the UE, 1930s to 1960s."

Steven High is currently a doctoral candidate in History at the University of Ottawa conducting research into the emergence of the "Rust Belt" in the North American popular imagination.

Bonnie Huskins teaches Canadian history at the University College of the Fraser Valley in British Columbia.

Franca Iacovetta is a member of the University of Toronto's Department of History and author of Such Hardworking People.

Hans Ulrich Jost is Professor of Contemporary History at the University of Lausanne in Switzerland. His publications include Die Altkommunisten (1977) and Les avant-garde réactionnaires (1992).

Tom Langford teaches Sociology at the University of Calgary.

Mark Leier teaches history at Simon Fraser University and is the author of Red Flags and Red Tape.

Eric Tucker teaches at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University, is the author of Administering Danger in the Workplace, and works in the areas of labour law history and occupational health and safety regulation.

Robert Ventresca is a doctoral candidate in History at the University of Toronto.