LABOUR QUOTE (a new and irregular feature)

"IN THE GROUP STRUGGLE over the division of the joint product, labour utilizes the union with its two great weapons, the strike and the lockout; while capital utilizes the trust and the association, the weapons of which are the black-list, the lock-out, and the scab. The scab is by far the most formidable weapon of the three. ... But both warring groups have reserve weapons. ... The scab takes the place of the striker, who begins at once to wield a most powerful weapon, terrorism. His employers, the capitalists, draw their two remaining weapons, the political and judicial machinery of society. When the scab crumples up and is ready to go down before the fists, bricks, and bullets of the labour group, the capitalist group puts the police and soldiers into the field, and begins a general bombardment of injunctions."

—Jack London, "War of the Classes," 1905
