

Contributors / Collaborateurs

Volume 7, numéro 1, autumn 1977

URI : https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/acad7_1con01

Aller au sommaire du numéro

Éditeur(s)

The Department of History of the University of New Brunswick

ISSN

0044-5851 (imprimé)

1712-7432 (numérique)

Découvrir la revue

Citer ce document

(1977). Contributors / Collaborateurs. Acadiensis, 7(1), 2–2.

Contributors/Collaborateurs

David Frank is a Ph.D. candidate at Dalhousie University. An earlier version of his paper was delivered during the Learned Societies in June 1976.

David Weale is a member of the History Department of the University of Prince Edward Island. An earlier version of his paper was delivered at the second Atlantic Canada Studies Conference in Fredericton, April 1976.

After graduating with his Ph.D. from the University of Toronto, Graeme Wynn taught briefly in New Zealand and then accepted a position in the Department of Geography of the University of British Columbia.

R. J. Sacouman recently received his Ph.D. from the University of Toronto and now teaches in the Department of Sociology at Acadia University. An earlier version of his paper was delivered at the second Atlantic Canada Studies Conference.

Brian Cuthbertson did his M.A. at the University of New Brunswick and his Ph.D. at King's College, London and is now a research assistant at the Public Archives of Nova Scotia.

A member of the Department of English of the Royal Military College, Tom Vincent has previously contributed documents to Acadiensis.

One of Canada's most distinguished historians, Ramsay Cook is on the Faculty at York University.

Jack Bumsted is a Professor of History at Simon Fraser University, currently visiting at the University of Edinburgh.

Ruth Pierson is a member of the History Department at the Memorial University of Newfoundland.

Elisabeth Tooker is a distinguished anthropologist who teaches at Temple University in Philadelphia.

Dick Wilbur has written several fine studies of the Bennett years and teaches at Corcordia University.

A graduate of Manitoba, Carleton and Queen's, B. L. Vigod is a member of the History Department at the University of New Brunswick.