

Journal of the Canadian Historical Association Revue de la Société historique du Canada

Our Contributors/Nos auteurs Nos auteurs

Volume 1, numéro 1, 1990

URI : <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/031023ar>

DOI : <https://doi.org/10.7202/031023ar>

Aller au sommaire du numéro

Éditeur(s)

The Canadian Historical Association/La Société historique du Canada

ISSN

0847-4478 (imprimé)

1712-6274 (numérique)

Découvrir la revue

Citer ce document

(1990). Our Contributors/Nos auteurs. Journal of the Canadian Historical Association / Revue de la Société historique du Canada, 1(1), 328–329.
<https://doi.org/10.7202/031023ar>

All rights reserved © The Canadian Historical Association/La Société historique du Canada, 1991

Ce document est protégé par la loi sur le droit d'auteur. L'utilisation des services d'Érudit (y compris la reproduction) est assujettie à sa politique d'utilisation que vous pouvez consulter en ligne.

<https://apropos.erudit.org/fr/usagers/politique-dutilisation/>

érudit

Cet article est diffusé et préservé par Érudit.

Érudit est un consortium interuniversitaire sans but lucratif composé de l'Université de Montréal, l'Université Laval et l'Université du Québec à Montréal. Il a pour mission la promotion et la valorisation de la recherche.

<https://www.erudit.org/fr/>

OUR CONTRIBUTORS/NOS AUTEURS

Judith A. Allen is chair of Women's Studies at Griffith University in Brisbane, Australia. She is author of Sex and Secrets: Crimes Involving Australian Women Since 1860 (1990) and Rose Scott: Vision and Revision in Australian Feminism 1880-1925 (forthcoming). She is currently working on a historical study of population changes and the sexes comparing Canada, the United States, New Zealand, and Australia during the period between roughly 1860 and 1960.

Peter Bischoff s'intéresse principalement au monde ouvrier de l'Ontario et du Québec du XIX^e siècle. Ses recherches de maîtrise (Université du Québec à Montréal, 1986) et doctorales (Université de Montréal) ont porté sur ce sujet. Il a déjà publié des articles dans Labour/Le Travail et la Revue d'histoire de l'Amérique française.

Naomi Black is professor of Political Science at York University. Coauthor (with Alison Prentice, Paula Bourne, Gail Cuthbert Brandt, Beth Light, and Wendy Mitchinson) of Canadian Women: A History (Toronto, 1988) and author of Social Feminism (Ithaca, 1989), she is currently working on a study of the contemporary Canadian women's movement.

Gail Cuthbert Brandt is associate professor of History at Glendon College, York University. Coauthor (with Alison Prentice, Paula Bourne, Beth Light, Wendy Mitchinson, and Naomi Black) of Canadian Women: A History (Toronto, 1988), she is currently completing Through the Mill: Women in the Quebec Textile Industry 1890-1950.

Valerie Burton joined the staff of Memorial University of Newfoundland in 1989 after a research and teaching career in British universities. She has edited a collection of essays on the port of Liverpool and published articles on seafaring history. She is an editor of the International Journal of Maritime History.

Mark Cox is an SSHRCC Postdoctoral Fellow at the University of Victoria. The author of several articles on early-twentieth-century regulatory change, he has completed the revision of his thesis for publication and is currently working on a monograph on the development of the regulatory state in British Columbia.

Brett Fairbairn is an assistant professor of History at the University of Saskatchewan. His interests include democracy and popular movements in Germany, and cooperative movements in Germany, Canada, and around the world. He has published various articles and chapters on these subjects, as well as a book on consumer cooperatives in western Canada.

David Gagan is professor of History and Dean of Humanities at McMaster University, Hamilton, Ontario. His publications include The Denison Family of Toronto (Toronto, 1973), Hopeful Travellers: Families, Land and Social Change in Mid-Victorian Peel

OUR CONTRIBUTORS/NOS AUTEURS

County, Canada West (Toronto, 1980), and “A Necessity Among Us”: The Owen Sound General and Marine Hospital, 1891-1985 (1990).

Rosemary Gagan is a SSHRCC Postdoctoral Fellow in the Department of History of the University of Toronto. Her research has appeared in the Urban History Review, Historical Studies in Education, and the British Journal of Canadian Studies. She is the author of a forthcoming major monograph on Canadian Methodist women missionaries between 1880 and 1925.

Royden Loewen is a postdoctoral fellow at the University of Manitoba. His doctoral thesis, “Family, Church and Market: A History of a Mennonite Community Transplanted from Russia to Canada and the United States, 1850-1930,” is a comparative study of social adaptation. His publications focus on themes of immigration and ethnicity as well as rural social history.

Jeremy Mouat is an assistant professor of History at Athabaska University. He recently completed a doctorate at the University of British Columbia and is currently writing a monograph on hard rock mining in British Columbia.

Udo Sautter teaches modern history at the University of Windsor. He has recently completed a book on the growth of the unemployment reform movement in the United States, forthcoming from Cambridge University Press. His current research interests focus on related reform efforts during the Progressive era.

Marjorie R. Theobald teaches at the Institute of Education at the University of Melbourne and is the editor of the History of Education Review. Her research interest is the history of women’s education. Her most recent publications include Family, School and State in Australian History, coedited with R. J. W. Selleck, and Women Who Taught: perspectives on the history of women teachers, coedited with Alison Prentice.

Hubert Watelet est professeur au département d’histoire de l’Université d’Ottawa. Ses travaux portent sur la révolution industrielle et l’archéologie industrielle en France et en Belgique, et aussi sur l’historiographie française du XXe siècle. Il est codirecteur de la revue Histoire sociale/Social History.

Thomas Wien is a research associate in the Département d’histoire of the Université de Montréal. His principal research interests are the rural economy and society in early Canada and the eighteenth-century fur trade in North America and in Europe.