

Contributors / Collaborateurs

Volume 63, printemps 2009

URI : <https://id.erudit.org/iderudit/llt63con01>

Aller au sommaire du numéro

Éditeur(s)

Canadian Committee on Labour History

ISSN

0700-3862 (imprimé)

1911-4842 (numérique)

Découvrir la revue

Citer ce document

(2009). Contributors / Collaborateurs. Labour / Le Travail, 63, 7–7.

CONTRIBUTORS / COLLABORATEURS

Eric Arnesen, a professor of history at the University of Illinois at Chicago and past president of The Historical Society is currently writing a biography of A. Philip Randolph.

Tanya Basok is the Director of the Centre for Studies in Social Justice and Professor at the Department of Sociology and Anthropology, University of Windsor.

Marshall Bastable received his PhD from the University of Toronto. He teaches European History for the History Department and Labour Movements and Social Change for Labour Studies at the University of Windsor.

Stefan Epp holds a MA in History from Queen's University and a BA (Honours) from the University of Winnipeg. His research has focused on Winnipeg municipal politics during the 1920s and 1930s.

Lionel-Henri Groulx est professeur associé à l'Université de Montréal. Il mène présentement des recherches sur l'évolution des politiques familiales et des services sociaux au Québec et au Canada. Il a publié Où va le modèle suédois (Presses de l'Université de Montréal), Le travail social : analyse et évolution (Agence d'Arc) et Revenu minimum garanti : comparaison internationale, analyses et débats (Presses de l'Université du Québec).

Benjamin Isitt, Ph.D., is an assistant professor and postdoctoral fellow of history at the University of Victoria. A specialist in the social history of Canada and the world, Dr. Isitt has explored diverse topics from Canada's Siberian Expedition of 1918–1919 to the interaction of workers and environmentalists on British Columbia's resource frontier.

Noel Iverson (b. 1933), Ph.D. University of Minnesota, is a retired professor of sociology who spent most of his teaching career at the University of New Brunswick (Canada). His publications include studies of world urbanization, comparative socio-economic systems, social change, and civil-military relations. Author of Germania, U.S.A., he is presently working on a biography of Nels Anderson.

Kevin Morgan teaches politics at the University of Manchester. He has written extensively on British and international communism and most recently is co-editor of the international collection, Bolshevism, Stalinism and the Comintern (Palgrave). He is also one of the editors of a new publication being launched in 2009, Twentieth Century Communism: a journal of international history.

Dr. Ingo Schmidt, Political Economist, works currently as an Academic Coordinator at Athabasca University, Alberta, where he teaches Labour Relations. He wrote a Doctoral Thesis on the history of the German trade union movement, collaborates with the Working Group for Alternative Economic Policies in Europe, and serves as a co-editor of Göttinger Betriebsexpress, a local labour magazine in Germany. In the past Ingo taught at different universities in Germany and Canada and worked as a staff economist with the metal workers union IG Metall in Germany.

Paul Stevenson has taught sociology at the University of Winnipeg for 32 years and previously to that at Laurentian University. Areas of publication include underdevelopment, political sociology, and economic sociology.

Brendan Sweeney is a Ph.D. Candidate in the Department of Geography at Queen's University. His current research examines the restructuring of work in the forest sector in British Columbia and the U.S. Pacific Northwest.

Li Zhang is Associate Professor of Anthropology and former Director of the East Asian Studies Program at the University of California at Davis.