Newfoundland and Labrador Studies is a bi-annual inter-disciplinary journal devoted to publishing original essays in either English or French about the society and culture of Newfoundland and Labrador, past and present. The editorial goal is to publish essays which are likely to be of general as well as scholarly interest.

Correspondence regarding essays or reviews should be sent to The Editor or the Review Editor respectively, Newfoundland and Labrador Studies, Faculty of Arts Publications, FM2005, Memorial University, St. John's, Newfoundland, A1C 5S7.

Information about subscriptions can be obtained from the Managing Editor at the above address or at: (709) 737-2144 (voice), (709) 737-4342 (fax), or nlstudies@mun.ca (e-mail). You can also visit us at: <http://www.mun.ca/nls>

We gratefully acknowledge the financial support given by the Dean of the Faculty of Arts at Memorial University and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada.

Newfoundland and Labrador Studies is not responsible for statements of fact or opinion in the printed essays.

The Editor welcomes the submission of manuscripts, in either English or French. Authors are required to submit an abstract of approximately 100 words.

- 1) Articles should be submitted in hard copy and in electronic format, using WordPerfect 8 or higher.
- 2) Articles should not normally exceed 10,000-12,000 words. The journal uses endnotes rather than footnotes.
- 3) Since the journal is interdisciplinary, contributors may use the citation method usual for the discipline concerned.
- 4) Spelling follows Canadian norms. In case of uncertainty, contributors should consult The Canadian Oxford Dictionary.
- 5) Authors are responsible for obtaining copyright clearances where applicable.
- 6) When an article has been accepted for publication, the author will be asked to make the text conform to the house style, and to sign a consent to publish form. Copyright will rest with the journal.

Contributors

ROGER BILL is a PhD student in the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology at Memorial University.

BARRY C. GAULTON is Assistant Professor in the Department of Anthropology and Archaeology, Memorial University.

MAARTEN GERRITSEN is originally from Holland and moved to Canada to undertake graduate work at the Department of History at Memorial University. His doctoral dissertation, which considered identity among members of the Canadian Expeditionary Force, was completed in 2008. Currently he is extending his research to include soldiers who served in World War II, Korea and more recent peacekeeping missions.

JOSHUA D. LALOR is a PhD candidate in the Department of Anthropology at Memorial University.

PATRICK MANNION is a PhD candidate in the department of History at the University of Toronto. His B.A. and M.A. research at Memorial University focused on Irish community and identity in nineteenth and early twentieth-century Newfoundland. His PhD project will expand this line of inquiry into a comparative study of Irish ethnic populations in three north-Atlantic ports: St. John's, Newfoundland, Halifax, Nova Scotia and Portland, Maine, 1850-1922.

CHRIS MARTIN graduated with a Master of Arts in History from Memorial University in 2008. He currently resides in St. John's.

AARON F. MILLER is a historical archaeologist and PhD candidate at Memorial University.

HELENE STAVELEY earned a PhD in Canadian Fiction from Memorial University, where she currently teaches. She had previously worked for twelve years in Canada's children's book trade as a buyer and bookseller.
